

Common Pantry provides emergency food and personal items to about 1,000 persons per month. We host distribution sessions every Wednesday afternoon and evening, inviting clients to select some items on their own in our shopping area. We do our best to keep in stock the products most needed and wanted by families. Thanks to our generous donors, we are well stocked with many items. Following is a list of food and personal care items that are most in need right now. So if you are collecting some things on your own, or participating in a food drive, we hope you will include items on this list. Please remember to check expiration dates (we cannot distribute expired food) and consider buying modest size products (e.g. a few 24 oz containers of cooking oil are preferable to one 64 oz. container).
